

The Manitoba-Saskatchewan Conference has a vision to reach the North for Jesus. Our congregations are growing in Nunavut. It is our goal to establish a lay-led church in each of the 25 communities of that territory. To support this vision and the existing work, we are launching a fundraising campaign to build a Church/Community Centre in Igloolik, home to our largest Nunavut congregation. It would serve as our Centre of Operations in Nunavut, provide a place of worship, and double as a community centre during the week.

BUILDING A DREAM

This church is the dream of Ilisapi Angutimarik, a recent Inuk convert to Adventism and co-leader of the congregation. She desires to share the love of her Savior with her community, but they face skepticism. A community building hosting beneficial programs like a soup kitchen or community events will soften hearts and open minds. Since building in the Arctic is very expensive, constructing the proposed 1,750 square foot facility will cost nearly $1 million.
